REVIEW

Whereas macroeconomic conditions were rather uncertain during the first half of the year, they have deteriorated more obviously over the last quarter. The recent meltdown in the financial sector has forced many governments to spend billions of dollars to bail out major institutions, in a bid to prevent the financial crisis from spreading to other parts of the economy. The jury is still out as to whether these efforts will be successful.

With the decline in the health of the global economy, a spillover to the semiconductor industry would not be unexpected. Nonetheless, the performance of ASM in the third quarter of 2008 is still robust. It is pertinent to note that our turnover in the second quarter was a new record, and we are pleased to have maintained a high billing level in the third quarter. Compared to the rest of our industry at this time, this is very encouraging and demonstrates again our resilience in the face of difficult market conditions.

For the first nine months this year, Group turnover was US$570 million, representing an increase of 13.2% over same period last year. Equipment revenue increased by 10.5% to US$448 million and revenue for our Leadframe business increased by 24.4% to US$122 million.

During the third quarter of 2008, Equipment revenue decreased by 4.6% to US$152 million from the same period a year ago and decreased by 7.3% from the preceding quarter. Leadframe revenue achieved an increase of 6.9% over the same quarter last year to US$42 million and remained at the high level same as the preceding quarter. Leadframe revenue contributed to 21.6% of the Group's turnover.

Since August, we have perceived increasing cautiousness by our customers in expanding their capacity. The onset of the financial tsunami has negatively impacted our order inflows, which were probably also affected to some extent by China's Beijing Olympics and Paralympics held over two months in August and September 2008. Much of the country's attention was focused on the events, which may have led to a slowdown in economic activities.

Our new order bookings for the third quarter of 2008 amounted to US$161 million, which is a decrease of 22.3% as compared to the preceding three months. For the first nine months of 2008, new order bookings amounted to US$543 million, an increase of 2.6% over same period last year.

As of 30 September 2008, the order backlog amounted to US$123 million, a decrease of 21.5% as compared to the preceding three months. The book-to-bill ratio, representing net bookings over billings, was 0.83 for the third quarter of 2008, which is a decrease from the ratio of 1.0 in the preceding quarter.

Capital addition during the period amounted to HK$75 million; majority funded by this quarter's depreciation of HK$54 million.

PROSPECTS

There is a widespread belief that the recent financial meltdown may signal the start of a recession in the global economy. In its aftermath, stock valuations worldwide have been slashed irrespective of industry, and oil prices are at nearly half the records witnessed just a few months ago. Investor confidence has clearly been damaged.

Some economists are predicting an economic downturn lasting several quarters. This general negativity poses the real danger of a crisis in confidence which will lead to falling consumption, especially in consumer spending on electronic devices which drive the growth of the semiconductor industry in the past few years. That may in turn cause our customers to also reduce their capital expenditure accordingly.

We continue to believe in the longer-term prospects of the semiconductor industry, but are mindful of the need to brave the short-term challenges that are upon us. However, tough market conditions often offer new opportunities where the fittest can profit. With our strong financial resources and dedicated staff, we will strive to navigate the challenges and emerge stronger. The long-term visionary outlook of the management team has allowed ASM to look beyond the immediate market conditions in order to leverage on its R&D strengths and to deliver the best value propositions to its customers.

Operationally, we will aggressively control our costs and expenses to maintain our productivity and competitiveness. We will be conservative in our headcount increases, except in strategic areas which are crucial for our future growth. Our third R&D centre in Chengdu, Sichuan province, China has now become operational and will be a strategic growth area for the company. Our capital expenditure this year will likely be reduced due to market conditions, it will be less than previously budgeted. While ASM is not immune to the economic challenges brought about by the global financial crisis, its successful diversification strategy and proven track record make it well-placed to ride out the storm and to strengthen its position as the market leader.
